

Zero Waste Alliance

Putting Sustainability into Action: Sustainability assessments that help you set priorities and make measurable progress

8:00-Noon on May 9, 2006

OMSI's Auditorium

Oregon Museum of Science and Industry
1945 SE Water Avenue
Portland, OR 97214-3354

A collaboration of the Oregon Natural Step Network and the Zero Waste Alliance

Talking about sustainability is easier than putting it into action. How does an organization get started? A recycling program and energy efficient light bulbs are a good start, but where do you go from there? A sustainability assessment can help you set priorities, and can be used as a tool to measure improvement. In this half-day workshop, presenters will share sustainability assessment tools and local resources that can help your organization take action.

Agenda and Speakers

Program: 8:00am – 12:00pm

The Value of System-wide assessments (Mary Steckel, City of Corvallis)

Organizational practices assessment: SCORE (Darcy Hitchcock, AXIS Performance Advisors/Zero Waste Alliance)

A Quick overview of the Natural Step (Regina Hauser, Oregon Natural Step Network)

Greenhouse gas audits and energy audits (TBD and Kim Hughes, Zero Waste Alliance)

Chemical inventories and management systems (Pamela Brody-Heine and Dorothy Atwood, Zero Waste Alliance)

Natural Resource Audits (Megan Stein, City of Portland, Office of Sustainability)

Measuring Social Impacts (TBA)

12:00-1:00 No host lunch with the presenters (optional)

Registration

ORTNS members

$99 early registration
(by April 7)

$125 late registration

ORTNS non-members

$115 early registration

$140 late registration

For More Information

To register or to get more information, contact Barbara Koneval at 503 241-1140 or events@ortns.org or go to www.ortns.org.

Generously sponsored by Oregon Museum of Science and Industry